

Key facts about the residents of Pennsylvania District 8¹

Medicaid plays a critical role in people's lives. More than 200,000 residents of the district rely on Medicaid for health care and protection against unaffordable medical bills. They include nearly 80,000 children and more than 20,000 adults age 65 and older.²

Many people with incomes too high for Medicaid buy their own health insurance on Pennie.com. Nearly 25,000 district residents rely on Pennie for health insurance, most of whom use enhanced premium tax credits to help purchase coverage. If Congress lets those credits expire after 2025, district residents' health insurance costs will rise. For example:

- A 40-year-old man earning $31,000 a year would see his monthly premiums more than double, rising from $58 to $153. His annual health insurance costs would thus shoot up by more than $1,000.
- Health insurance costs would more than triple for a 60-year-old couple earning $82,000, rising from $581 to $2,117 a month. The couple's annual premium costs would go up by a staggering $18,000.

Nearly 60,000 families in the district use the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) to help pay grocery bills. These families include:³

- Children: 25,000 of the District's SNAP families have children.
- Older adults: Nearly half of the District's SNAP families include adults in their 60s or older.
- People with disabilities: Almost 30,000 District families helped by SNAP include people with disabilities.
- Low-wage workers: Almost nine in 10 District families with SNAP have bread-earners who work but do not make enough money to feed their families without help.⁴

² The exact figures, according to the Census Bureau, were 203,170 District residents who were covered through Medicaid in 2023, including 80,451 children and 21,273 older adults.

³ These proportions add up to more than 100%, because a single family can have members in multiple categories. For example, a SNAP family with a disabled father, a working mother, and a child would count as a family with a child, a family that includes a person with disabilities, and a family with a low-wage worker.

⁴ The exact figures, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, were 58,869 District families who used SNAP to help pay food costs, including 25,689 families with children, 27,678 families with at least one adult age 60 or older, 29,938 families with at least one person with disabilities, and 50,844 families with one or more workers.
